

Changemakers

CONNECTING PAST AND FUTURE

Mabel Ping-Hua Lee

RESPOND to the stories and illustrations of changemakers that Eva Chen and Sophie Diao presented in We Are Golden. Reflect on the many ways a person can be a leader and how changemakers work in all fields of science, government, and the arts to impact society.

CREATE a scene that includes your future self with someone who inspires, supports, or influences you. First, think about what type of leader you'd like to be and what fields of work interest you. Include in your scene a person who is inspiring your dreams or helping you build leadership skills. This could be someone from the past whose shoulders you stand on, someone who has your back as you grow and learn, or someone who walks beside you and picks you up when you stumble.

DRAW A SCENE WITH YOUR FUTURE SELF AND A LEADER WHO INSPIRES YOU.

PRESENT your scene and celebrate how making and presenting art shows what you are thinking.

CONNECT your dreams with your special leadership skills and ways you could become a changemaker right now, instead of waiting until you grow up. Creativity is putting your imagination into action. Whatever you imagine, you can become!
